

Revisiting Memory River

R 15,800.00 ex. vat

This is a painting of my middle child, who is also close to becoming an adult. As she sits, perched on the bow of a punt, I have imagined her to be reflecting - not only physically - but also emotionally on her future. The water is unclear - the river is downstream and meandering.

Rivers feature a lot in my work. This one holds great significance as it is part of the River Cherwell, that runs through Oxford, where my husband and I first met. We were 'revisiting' Oxford with our children, taking a trip down Memory Lane. It is interesting that this child aspires to creating memories of her own in this place, 'testing the waters' for herself.

Frame	The canvas has been stretched onto a 23mm deep finger-joined, kiln-dried obeche stretcher and is hang-ready
Medium	Oil on canvas
Height	70.00 cm
Width	55.00 cm
Artist	Ros Koch
Year	2022

