

Blinded by Sight

R 36,000.00 ex.
vat

Living in the vibrant rhythm of Cape Town city offers endless opportunities for self-discovery and growth. Amidst the hustle and bustle, it's natural to occasionally lose sight of important aspects like health, security, and self-esteem. This journey is shared by many, including friends from small towns who transition into city life. The metaphor of the dog fight highlights how we may sometimes overlook the richness of our surroundings, both in terms of opportunities and potential challenges. It's a reminder of how deeply we can immerse ourselves in our own worlds and concerns about perception. However, amidst this reflection, it's crucial to recognize the silver linings. Despite the challenges, there's a beauty in the resilience of life itself. The world continues to evolve around us, offering unexpected moments of joy and luck, like the growth of plants or the unpredictability of chance encounters. These reminders encourage us to embrace the present moment and remain open to the endless possibilities that surround us.

| | |
|----------|--------------------------|
| Frame | None |
| Medium | Oil on Canvas |
| Location | Cape Town , South Africa |
| Height | 199.00 cm |
| Width | 144.00 cm |
| Artist | David Goldsmid |
| Year | 2024 |

