

Victorian Armour

R 46,850.00 ex. vat

In this piece, I look at the idea of the dress as a fortress and how women used it to armour themselves against the ideals of a patriarchal society. The Kente cloth I use was traditionally viewed as a male cloth in Nigeria but I clothe the model in this attire to comment on gendered identities and pay tribute to the community which is reinventing themselves through cloth.

Frame	None
Edition Size	20
Medium	Digital Print on Tecco Fine Art Paper
Location	Harare, Zimbabwe
Height	118.00 cm
Width	78.00 cm
Artist	Tamary Kudita
Year	2019

