This artwork features a neon pink vertical line running through a textured background of abstract shapes and colors, blending shades of pink, blue, and hints of green. The boldness of the neon light contrasts with the organic, painterly textures surrounding it, creating a balance between artificial and natural elements. Van Straten is known for exploring themes of light, texture and abstraction, often integrating modern materials like neon into her work to evoke a sense of energy and movement. The juxtaposition of the geometric light with the fluid, organic backdrop in Parallel Pink invites viewers to contemplate the interaction between man-made structures and the natural world.
