

Sea Whispers for Mami Wata

R 60,369.00

This photograph captures a figure standing on a beach with turquoise waves and a dynamic sky as the backdrop. The person wears a white bodysuit with translucent puff sleeves and a headpiece made of cowrie shells that cascade over their face, flowing in the ocean breeze. Their hands rest gently on their chest and abdomen in a gesture that evokes calm and introspection. The image, titled Sea Whispers for Mami Wata at the Shore of Guanahani (2022) by Adama Delphine Fawundu, connects the spiritual and ancestral symbolism of water with the African diaspora's ongoing dialogue with memory and identity. The cowrie shells, symbols of wealth, femininity, and divine connection, extend the work's meditation on the ocean as both a site of passage and renewal.
